HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE AND NEW JERSEY CITY UNIVERSITY JOIN FORCES FOR NEW CRIMINAL JUSTICE TRANSFER PROGRAM AGREEMENT

Hudson County Community College (HCCC) signed an articulation agreement with New Jersey City University (NJCU) on Tuesday, March 16, 2021. The signing took place in the new HCCC Student Center at 81 Sip Avenue in Jersey City. HCCC President Dr. Chris Reber was joined for the signing by NJCU President Dr. Sue Henderson, and members of their faculties and staffs.

“This new agreement will provide current HCCC students and graduates with a seamless pathway to transfer and complete a Bachelor of Science degree at NJCU. Further, it will guarantee that HCCC students, who meet certain criteria, have a reserved place in the NJCU Criminal Justice bachelor-degree program,” Dr. Reber stated. “We are excited to again partner with NJCU and provide opportunities for the people of our community to advance in their education and prepare for economic-resilient careers.”

“Hudson County Community College has long been a valued partner of our university and both institutions share a similar educational mission in our community. This articulation agreement further strengthens our partnership,” Dr. Henderson said. “Last year, transfers from HCCC received degrees in 24 different academic disciplines and our nationally-ranked Criminal Justice program was among the most sought-after degree. We look forward to continuing to welcome HCCC students to NJCU.”

Under the terms of this new agreement, HCCC students who receive an Associate of Science degree in Criminal Justice from the College may

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE JOINS #CCMONTH CAMPAIGN TO IMPROVE AWARENESS OF VALUE, NEED TO SUPPORT COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Hudson County Community College announced that it will join #CCMonth, a month-long grassroots education and stigma-busting campaign coordinated by the Association of Community College Trustees (ACCT). The primary goals of #CCMonth are to improve awareness of the economic, academic and equity advantages of attending community colleges, and to bust longtime stigmas wrongly associated with public two-year colleges.

“The past year has proved beyond any doubt that our College is absolutely vital to our community and our state,” said HCCC President Dr. Chris Reber. “#CCMonth is an opportunity to reach out into both and to demonstrate not only that community colleges should be the first choice of many collegegoers, but why community colleges are first-class institutions that are vital to our local and state economies.”

Public community colleges are a uniquely American educational model that was designed to guarantee access to affordable, high-quality higher education for all people. They are the primary educators of life-saving nursing and other healthcare professionals among many others. They also serve as an onramp to bachelor’s, master’s and higher-level degrees for many stu-

UPDATE ON HCCC'S STUDENT SUCCESS WORK

From March 16 – 19, 2021, Dr. Mary Fifield and Dr. Rene Garcia, HCCC's Achieving the Dream Leadership and Data Coaches, respectively, participated in their second visit to HCCC of the 2020-21 Academic Year. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, their visit was conducted through a series of virtual meetings. HCCC Achieving the Dream Dream Team Co-Chairs Heather DeVries and Dr. Sheila Dynan would like to extend their sincere thanks for all who made Dr. Fifield and Dr. Garcia's visit a success.

In the coming weeks, President Reber will receive a letter from Drs. Fifield and Garcia that will provide a summary of their visit, including key findings and recommendations for further consideration. As with past letters, it will be shared with the entire HCCC community for review and reflection.

HCCC's Achieving the Dream Dream Team continues to implement the College's Student Success Action Plan through eight How Teams. Each How Team is tasked with implementing one specific strategy of the Action Plan. The How Teams are pleased to share the following updates on their work.

Student Services work area on the second floor.

Recently, Hudson County Community College (HCCC) students and staff provided Hudson County Executive Thomas A. DeGise with a tour of the recently completed Student Center at 81 Sip Avenue in Jersey City.

HCCC President Dr. Chris Reber and Mr. DeGise were joined by students and administrators in a tour of the renovated building, which was completed last March just prior to the COVID-19 pandemic shutdown.

"This building represents a milestone for Hudson County Community College as it is the first, dedicated Student Center in the College's 47-year history," Dr. Reber stated. "We are exceedingly grateful to County Executive DeGise, the County Commissioners, HCCC Trustees, and everyone who assisted in making this dream a reality for our students."

Dr. Reber said the $8.2 million renovation to a College-owned building was designed by Di Cara | Rubino Architects to create a state-of-the-art setting that affords students the very best in technology, safety and convenience. The renovation by APS Contracting, Inc. included the addition of façade brick stained to match that of the adjoining HCCC Gabert Library; replacement of the existing roof; complete interior demolition; the addition of a new entrance vestibule; installation of new HVAC systems, elevators, emergency generator; and a direct, indoor connection to the Gabert Library. SUMMER HOURS

This year the summer four-day week will begin Monday, May 17, with the first Friday off scheduled for Friday, May 21. The five-day schedule will resume on Monday, August 16, when we should all plan to be fully back on ground for the fall semester.

The daily hours of operation during the summer four-day weeks will be 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, and the College will not be open for regular business on Fridays. Employees are asked to reduce their lunch breaks to 30 minutes in order to help compensate for the shorter hours of operation during the week. College activities on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays during this period will be minimized to reduce energy and other operating costs.

For information about online, remote, and on-ground learning and the College's on-ground operations, students, faculty and staff are encouraged to visit the Return to Campus Task Force web page - <http://www.hccc.edu/returntocampus/>

Submission by Yeury Pujols, Executive Director of the North Hudson Campus, and Anna Krupitskiy, Vice President for Human Resources.

"The web of our life is of a mingled yarn good and ill together," began Professor Katie Sweeting as our featured storyteller for Our Stories Untold series program. She was joined by over 60 students, staff, faculty, and family guests on Tuesday, March 16th, 2021, sharing her journey from the San Fernando Valley, California, to Kenya, East Africa, and Queens, New York, to Jersey City. A student appreciated Katie's "openness, the windows open on her family, the sharing of personal pictures, the quality of her friendships."

Supported by her husband of 37 years, Pastor William Sweeting, Katie encouraged the audience to think about their own life as she shared how her experiences, threading teaching, multiculturalism, and compassion, prepared her for each stage of hers. While she grew up in a white family and a white neighborhood, her parents wanted to make sure that she did not grow up racist and went out of their way to integrate black colleagues and friends into the family. Katie had a positive black male role model, a lifelong friend of the family for over 50 years. She credits this man because she ended up falling in love with and marrying a black man and mothering three black sons.

Katie became a follower of Jesus at the age of 17, one of the most important decisions of her life. Her journey enthused multiculturalism in her personal and professional milestones, becoming a better person and a professor. She understood what it feels like to be a minority, at one time the only white member of a 3,000-member black church. She questioned standards of beauty when they did not match one's own culture. When students told her about their struggles, grief, and loss, she listened with empathy and compassion. She learned to live in the moment and focus on what you have, and not on what you don't have, as the best way to go about it -- simple things. "Be kind to yourself," she said.

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE STUDENTS ADVANCE AS 2021 JACK KENT COOKE SCHOLARSHIP SEMIFINALISTS

Adoum Allamine

Gerardo Leal

Pedro Moranchel

Sofia Pazmino

Hudson County Community College (HCCC) students Adoum Allamine, Gerardo Leal, Pedro Moranchel, and Sofia Pazmino have been named semifinalists for the highly competitive and prestigious 2021 Jack Kent Cooke Foundation Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship. The recipients will be announced in April.

The Jack Kent Cooke Foundation recognizes exceptionally talented community college students seeking to complete baccalaureate degrees. This year's 406 semifinalists were chosen from a pool of more than 1,500 applicants attending 398 community colleges throughout the United States. Recipients are selected based on their exceptional academic ability and achievement, financial need, leadership, persistence, and service.

"Everyone at Hudson County Community College joins me in congratulating Adoum, Gerardo, Pedro, and Sofia on this great achievement," said HCCC President Dr. Chris Reber. "These extraordinary students have worked diligently and are most deserving of this major scholarship and recognition. They are an inspiration to our entire community."

Nearly half of all postsecondary students begin their college journey at two-year institutions. The Jack Kent Cooke Foundation research found that community college students who transfer to four-year institutions have equal to or higher graduation rates as compared to students who enrolled at these institutions directly from high school, or transferred from other four-year institutions. The Cooke Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship aims to increase the number of community college students completing their education at prestigious and high-performing four-year colleges and universities.

Jack Kent Cooke Scholarship recipients receive financial support for the full cost of attendance at four-year and graduate institutions, comprehensive educational advising, opportunities for internships, study abroad, and graduate school funding, as well as access to a network of over 2,800 fellow Cooke scholars and alumni.

ARTIST NEWS

In 2020, George Floyd's murder sparked a long-overdue national discussion about discrimination against BIPOC individuals and communities, a discussion which we are actively engaged in at HCCC. In this important matter, in a time when critical change needs to happen, the arts community is drawing attention to the need for humble learning. We see this in a recent article by Ann Hernandez, a Senior Diversity Fellow at the American Alliances of Museums, who writes about "How to Master Humble Learning."

Hernandez says that we often feel "that we need to be experts and wise contributors in every situation, especially if we are dubbed 'leaders' in our organization. We do not allow ourselves to be vulnerable, humble learners, recognizing that we all have areas to develop and things we need others to teach us. ... Cultural competence development is exactly one of these areas that require humble learners. To 'master' cultural competence is to never feel like you know everything. You are constantly asking questions, observing details, and carefully experimenting with what actions make sense in a given situation and culture. You are constantly reflecting on your own beliefs, traditions, and way of being in order to respect how others live differently."

Thanks to the amazing generosity of our donors, the Foundation Art Collection has grown from 25 installed art works to over 1,500 works. This accomplishment is a testament to our extraordinary community.

She suggests eight steps that may be helpful inside (and outside) the arts: 1. Understand that what's normal for you may not be for others. 2. Observe a situation before jumping in. "In some cultures, including the white American culture, we are rewarded for 'jumping in and taking action.' It is seen as taking initiative and adapting quickly. Humble learning is not about that. The value lies in getting outside of yourself for a moment and recognizing other ways of being first. Then, you compare them with your way of being and take action from there." 3. Be curious and ask questions: others don't know what you don't know, and it's important to learn about others' "values, behaviors, and cultural patterns." 4. Try to find the ways you can relate to another person or culture. 5. "Be uncomfortable. It probably means you are learning something. Challenge yourself to embrace experiences or differences that are new to you. Reflect on why something makes you uncomfortable and use that to understand the difference that you are encountering and how it relates to your norms." 6. Celebrate each new thing learned; and check your ego at the door. 7. Be patient, because it can take a lifetime to learn about a culture. Forgive yourself when you make a mistake. 8. Embrace the practice of being a beginner. By doing this your process can be joyful and educational, and you may find yourself eventually in step with this person or this culture. HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE SPEAKER SERIES EVENT FEATURES DR. CADY COLEMAN

On Wednesday, March 24, Hudson County Community College presented the next speaker in the Spring 2021 Speaker Series, Dr. Cady Coleman, as part of its Women's History Month programming.

Former NASA Astronaut and Air Force Colonel Dr. Cady Coleman is a veteran of two Space Shuttle missions and a six-month expedition aboard the International Space Station (ISS), spending 180 days in space.

Dr. Coleman served as the Lead Robotics and Lead Science officer aboard the ISS, performing the second-ever robotic capture of a supply ship from the station. On ground at NASA, Dr. Coleman served as the Chief of Robotics within the Astronaut Office and as the lead astronaut for integration with NASA's commercial partners.

In keeping with the HCCC President's Advisory Council on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (PACDEI) practices, the College encouraged members of the community to participate by submitting questions they had for Dr. Coleman.

Those who wish to access the Speaker Series event featuring Dr. Coleman on March 24, 2021 may do so by visiting <https://youtu.be/btXXytYAXLg>.

NEWS FROM THE PRESIDENT'S ADVISORY COUNCIL ON DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION

The President's Advisory Council on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (PACDEI) has been working with individuals, employees, departments, and community members on programs and initiatives that improve diversity, equity, and inclusion for HCCC's students, faculty, staff, and all we interact with. Everyone's input and support are greatly appreciated! We had a successful month of activities that included a monthly meeting with PACDEI members and attendance by our special guest from Achieving the Dream (ATD) Coaches, Dr. Mary Fifield and Dr. Rene Garcia and Cochairs Heather DeVries and Dr. Sheila Dynan. Drs. Fifield and Garcia engaged with PACDEI members in a lively discussion on the efforts of DEI at Hudson. They shared an outside perspective of all the group work that ATD is engaged in around the nation. PACDEI is happy to announce the addition of a 4th overarching goal that will have direct focus on student success. This was one of the recommendations from our ATD coaches.

Dr. Aaron Fichtner, President of the New Jersey Council of County Colleges will be a guest at our April meeting on Thursday, April 15. We are eager to hear about the work that they are doing and will share updates with you later.

PACDEI members are actively engaged in planning, implementing, supporting, and leading a wide range of activities. These include, but are not limited to, the completion of updates to our portal page and developing other platforms to share information with the community. We also want to thank Lisa Dougherty and Omar Williams for helping us out with the PACDEI external Website. PACDEI member Dr. Paula Robertson is working closely with the Bayard Rustin Center for Social Justice and will be providing two workshops for the college on April 23 and April 30. The Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Student Passport Program (DEISPP), a leadership and DEI development preprogram specifically for students, is going strong. This is just a small sampling of the efforts of PACDEI. We encourage the entire college community to participate in these efforts that support and expand diversity, equity, and inclusion at our institution and the communities we serve.

PACDEI Cochairs will continue sharing updates at the President's Town Hall each month and look forward to seeing you at one of our events, programs, and trainings. Please contact us if you would like to discuss how we can collaborate or support your DEI efforts. Please follow the efforts of PACDEI's DEI initiatives via the website or contact us directly by sending an email to pacdei@hccc.edu.

Project Management Certificate Student: Therese Camporeale

During Fall 2020, the Continuing Education Department offered a new Project Management Certificate program that promised participants would gain a comprehensive understanding of various principles and processes involved in managing a project of any size in any industry effectively. Continuing Education developed this program alongside the instructor, Susan Seradilla-Smarth, who has over 18 years of experience as a Project Manager Professional (PMP) and is a Certified Six Sigma Back Belt and Certified SCRUM Master. The goal of the program is to provide participants with strategies and practical hands-on tools to drive successful project outcomes. The certificate program provides participants with 36 hours of Project Management education, which is necessary if they want to receive certification from the Project Management Institute (PMI.)

Continuing Education interviewed Therese Camporeale, a student from the first cycle of the Project Management Certificate program.

What inspired you to take the Project Management Certificate program at HCCC?

I came to Continuing Education after my employment was affected by the pandemic in early 2020. I was looking for a substantial change in my career prospects and started researching Project Management. I noticed that more companies were pivoting toward Project Management and Agile Processes, with PMI projecting growth in their industries over the next 10 years.

What sort of experience did you already have managing projects?

I worked on projects during my time in education, travel, media, and non-profit organizations and knew this was the path I needed to take.

What is your opinion of the program?

The PMP Certificate course at HCCC lived up to the course outline, syllabus, and my expectations!

What were your biggest takeaways from the program?

The program provided me with a comprehensive view of all the Knowledge Areas and Process Groups, and it was presented in a lively and interactive manner.

What is your opinion of the program's instructor?

Professor Susan Serradilla-Smarth provided online presentations, real-world PM examples, opportunities for discussion, and fun learning tools for my success.

What certification did you achieve after you completed the program?

Thanks to the program I met the educational requirement to sit for a PMI certification. Along with my experience, I qualified to take the CAPM certification exam and recently passed the exam!

Congratulations! What are your next steps?

I look forward to applying my enhanced skills to the growing PM career marketplace.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER PATHS

Heather DeVries

Nadia Hedhli

Jennifer Rodriguez

Sharon Wilson-Harriott

On March 23, 2021, the Office of Human Resources organized Professional Career Paths, an employee panel, in honor of Women's History Month. The panelists were Nadia Hedhli, Associate Professor, STEM; Heather DeVries, Dean of Academic Affairs and Assessment; Jennifer Rodriguez, Coordinator of Early College Programs; and Sharon Wilson-Harriott, Assistant Controller in Finance. Each reflected on their professional career path along with the opportunities and challenges of work-life balance. The conversation was facilitated by Anna Krupitskiy, Vice President for Human Resources.

Over 45 in attendance, the audience shared that it was an uplifting experience to learn about the successes and setbacks of fellow female colleagues. Many viewed themselves in some of the speakers' experiences, like balancing demands of parenting and professional development pursuits. The audience appreciated the opportunity to hear and learn from women of HCCC that often work behind the scenes to keep our institution and programs running. The program had a significant impact from hearing the career journeys of other women and discussing strategies, goals, and the importance of mentorship.

A staff member appreciated the discussion on "[t]he truthfulness that we all have a level of bias within us and that we need to own it and acknowledge it!" Professor Sweeting shared that we should not ignore the fact that we all have some level of racism. Instead, we should confront it, own up to it, and then we can move on from there. If you don't, "you won't help anybody else's heart," she stated. Pastor Sweeting shared the importance of talking to his black sons and other young men about encounters with law enforcement. He noted that these conversations must happen early and as an ongoing reminder. He also added that Any significant change will happen over time and that it is important to see one's role and involvement in a movement and use each individual space to move this forward. Pastor Sweeting further appreciated HCCC's work, as part of this movement, on diversity and what the college represents of its student body.

"The entire Untold Stories program is powerful in connecting employees," a participant stated. Our Stories Untold storytelling emerged as a partnership between the Office of Human Resources and the President's Advisory Council on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (PACDEI). This series highlights the HCCC community members' personal, educational, and professional experiences, advice, and insight. Each program aims to introduce some of our outstanding and influential colleagues to enhance inclusion and create community. Do you know someone with an inspirational story? Do you want to tell your story? Tell us by contacting PACDEI@hccc.edu.

the building, as are “green” elements for energy efficiency and the sustainability of resources.

The HCCC Student Center’s first floor includes Student Lounges, Student Welcome Center, full-service Café, Veterans’ Lounge, and Security Command Center. The second floor houses offices for Student Life, Student Government and a variety of other student organizations, as well as an Open Lounge, and a large, Multipurpose Room for events and meetings. The office of the College’s Security, Custodial and Facilities Departments, and storage space are located on the lower level.

The new HCCC Student Center is the latest of several construction projects undertaken by HCCC that have transformed Journal Square. It is representative of the College’s mission to serve its diverse communities with inclusive educational programs and services that promote student success, socioeconomic mobility, and provide resources for growth. Students can meet outside the classroom, share ideas and values, assist and advise one another, pursue career and employment opportunities, develop better understanding of diverse cultures, and build longstanding relationships.

The project was financed with Chapter 12 funding, a state program for county colleges that is funded through State and County capital bond financing. All of the College’s capital improvement endeavors have been completed with appropriated capital. As a result, the College does not carry any capital debt, and not one dollar of student tuition is utilized for debt.

HCCC JOINS #CCMONTH CAMPAIGN TO IMPROVE AWARENESS OF VALUE, NEED TO SUPPORT COMMUNITY COLLEGES

dents, and particularly for the most demographically and socioeconomically diverse students. They guarantee fair admissions for all students. They offer supports for adult students who have to work to support their families. And without community colleges, many American students would not be able to access higher education at all.

Despite all this, many American people wrongly believe that community colleges are inferior institutions, and in most states, universities receive significantly more per-student state support than community colleges do. These negative attitudes and disparities support and encourage ongoing socioeconomic and demographic disadvantages and inequities in the United States.

“Community colleges are engines of diversity, equity and inclusion,” said ACCT President and CEO J. Noah Brown. “They give opportunities to all students, and they support all students throughout their educations, whether they attend to attain an associate degree or certificate, intend to transfer on for a bachelor’s or higher degree, or they take one or a few courses to learn a new skill or expand their horizons.”

The campaign is expected to have strong participation from community colleges and their supporters throughout the country.

A #CCMonth campaign toolkit is housed on the ACCT website, acct.org, including a logo, sample op-eds and press releases, social media posts, board resolutions and additional information. ACCT’s Twitter account, @CCTrustees, will be sharing information from member colleges throughout the month to amplify awareness.

What advice would you give to recent HCCC graduates?

My advice to recent HCCC graduates is to look for any opportunity in your field. If you do not have the experience, an internship is the best opportunity to excel your skills and start a career. Never stop learning, and keep educating yourself with diverse podcasts, webinars, seminars, and so on. We always learn something from other experts. Be determined on what you want to work on and networking help you open several doors. I had to knock on several doors to learn and be where I am right now on my personal experience. Nothing is impossible if you are determined and optimistic. One door will be open when you need it. Remember... Never give up on your dreams.

What advice do you have for those students who are just starting their college careers?

My best advice for those students is to enjoy their college experience and be involved in all the activities that HCCC has for them. Nowadays, companies are looking for leaders with diverse skills, and these activities will help them boost their skills in the workforce. Learn to manage your time with work and school. Make space for additional activities as part of your class. Education is a powerful tool to be successful and help you achieve your goals.

Class of May 2017

Associate of Science – Business Administration

What factors led you to decide to attend Hudson County Community College?

I grew up in a business environment since I was a child. My parents opened diverse businesses; unfortunately, they failed several times due to the lack of knowledge and skills. One of the main reasons my parents did not attend college was that they did not have time and had many family responsibilities. Once I immigrated to this country, I worked hard to learn and have my own business. After I saved a great deal of money, I invested in a small business. Unfortunately, I failed for the lack of understanding of the language and knowledge of business management. For that reason, I did not want to repeat the same mistake as my parents. I decided to come back to college and became the first-generation student in my family to achieve a college degree. Hudson County Community College is near to where I live and affordable compared to other universities. Also, the quality of learning is high compared to other community colleges.

What is your favorite memory of the college, in or out of the classroom?

My favorite memory is the diverse activities that HCCC has for all the students and the learning experience. I was a shy student and afraid to talk in class presentations. I joined and became a student leader of the most prestigious Honor Societies, including Phi Theta Kappa and the National Society of Leadership and Success. Also, I joined Accounting & Business Club, the college newsletter, and many more. My advisors and mentors exposure me to diverse events and activities to conquer my fears. I love to be part of the learning experience and visited various cities representing the school, including Miami at HACU event, Delaware and Pennsylvania at Phi Theta Kappa events, and many more.

How did you become interested in Business?

After I failed to manage my own business due to a lack of knowledge, I decided to return to college and pursue a Business Administration career. Even though I had the experience, I believe education is an essential key to success. The Business environment is a competitive career and demand a lot of diverse of skills and critical thinking to take better decisions. After I got my A.S. in Business Administration, I decided to pursue my bachelor's degree at Rutgers Business School in Newark in Supply Chain Management. I remember I took this decision after I took a Business class at HCCC. Professor Elana Winslow explained me the opportunities this career could bring to my career. I always thanked her for the valuable advice.

How did your time at HCCC prepare you for your career/ life now?

My time at HCCC was awesome. English is my second language, and my writing skills were lacking. I struggled writing essays during ESL classes. For that reason, I decided to join the newsletter college and start writing small stories. The editor assisted me with the proofreading and gave me diverse ideas to enhance my writing skills. I went to tutoring classes many times. In the end, I started writing smoothly, and my essays improved. Later, I was part of the Psi Beta Honor Society, where I got more support. Being part of the National Society Leadership & Success, I could boost my leadership skills and time management. Being Phi Theta Kappa International Honors Society student leader, I could work on team projects, including research and case analysis. Being Accounting and Business Club member, I competed in case competitions between other colleges, increasing my skills. Learning is a process and being part of these activities improved my communication skills and helped me develop myself as a professional. Consequently, I could handle management positions and be part of essential projects in various jobs. Therefore, I recommend all students to be part of these valuable activities.

What is a typical work day for you?

I am a Project Coordinator in a Service Company. My day starts with checking my emails and organizing the team's schedule on various jobs or projects. Also, I manage the logistics and coordinate with suppliers the diverse projects weekly. I am always busy with multiple meetings and creating proposals for our customers. Besides, I am a Supply Chain Consultant who assists some companies in the reverse logistic area. It is an online part-time job, and I am always on my emails.

What has been the most memorable project/case you have worked on?

My most memorable project is to audit and oversee the warehouse from my last job. I just took a Lean and Six Sigma class at Rutgers University, and my boss gave me this project. It was a fantastic experience to put all the learning experiences in the class into action. I had the opportunity to create reports and communicate with managers from all levels to increase effectiveness and solve problems. Teamwork was vital for this project. I could be able to manage this project thanks to my experience at HCCC.

Who are your biggest inspirations that have impacted your work in some way?

I am always feeling inspired by all businesswomen who are successful and strong these days. During my time in college, the founders of the Laundress were my biggest inspiration. Gwen Whiting & Lindsey Boyd are wonderful women who created an eco-friendly company and gave the opportunity to all women who want to be successful. They worked hard and developed their business on another level. I started part-time when I was in ESL, and they allowed me to study and work to become a professional woman. They always encouraged me to continue my studies and educate myself. After my graduation, they gave me the opportunity to hold management positions, and I am always grateful for it.
