HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE HOLDS RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY FOR NEW CAR-PARKING STACKER SYSTEM

Hudson County Community College marked completing the construction of a new car-parking stacker system with a ribbon-cutting ceremony on Thursday morning, March 6, 2025. The stackers – a mechanical system designed to allow several vehicles to be parked in a relatively small space – will accommodate 104 faculty, staff and student vehicles.

APRIL IS COMMUNITY COLLEGE MONTH

April is a time to celebrate the invaluable role community colleges play in shaping the educational landscape and empowering individuals from diverse backgrounds. As we mark Community College Month, we honor these institutions as hubs of opportunity, innovation, and accessibility. From providing affordable education and vocational training to fostering a supportive environment for non-traditional students, community colleges serve as catalysts for social mobility and economic growth. Join us in recognizing the profound impact of community colleges and their unwavering commitment to creating pathways to success for all members of our communities.

ATD COACHES VISIT HCCC

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE HOSTS FOURTH ANNUAL TEACHING AND LEARNING SYMPOSIUM ON SOCIAL JUSTICE IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Hudson County Community College (HCCC) held its fourth annual weeklong Teaching and Learning Symposium on Social Justice in Higher Education, February 24-28, 2025. Pictured here at the opening day ceremonies: Dr. Antonio Flores, President, Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities; Steven M. Fulop, Mayor of Jersey City, New Jersey; Dr. Paula Roberson, Director, HCCC Center for Teaching, Learning, and Innovation; and Dr. Christopher M. Reber, HCCC President.

College is not a one-size-fits-all route to a better future. From science and technology to the arts and humanities, academic programs reflect rapidly evolving industries where students of all backgrounds can thrive and improve their communities and regional economies. High quality, dedicated learning environments and dynamic approaches reinvigorate today's leaders and prepare tomorrow's leaders to access opportunities and prosper.

Hudson County Community College (HCCC) welcomed educators, business and civic leaders, community groups, and students as presenters and participants in the HCCC 2025 Teaching and Learning Symposium on Social Justice in Higher Education. Presentations were held February 24-28, 2025. Each day, elected officials and renowned education experts, attorneys, scientists, clergy, community advocates, and thought leaders from countries attended virtual synchronous sessions this year.

The symposium began on Monday, February 24, with opening remarks from Dr. Paula Roberson, Director of the HCCC Center for Teaching, Learning, and Innovation and the driving force behind the symposium. Dr. Darryl Jones, HCCC Vice President for Academic Affairs, introduced Newark Mayor Ras J. Baraka, U.S. Senator Cory A. Booker delivered the Symposium Charge, and Dr. Christopher Reber, HCCC President, introduced the symposium keynote speaker, Dr. Larry D. Johnson, Jr., President of Guttman Community College of the City University of New York (CUNY).

Opening-day presentations also included:

- The "Cost" of Leadership in Higher Education, Dr. Larry Johnson, Jr. with session host Dr. Paula Roberson; throughout the United States provided expertise and exchanged ideas in hour-long presentations.

Now in its fourth year, the HCCC Teaching and Learning Symposium on Social Justice in Higher Education is a national model featuring acclaimed guest speakers, workshops, and panels, and is the first of its kind offered by a New Jersey higher education institution. Nearly 1,800 thought leaders, educators, and activists from 30 states and several

• Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities (HACU) featuring Dr. Antonio Flores, HACU President and CEO, with Dr. Reber, and HCCC Vice President for Institutional Engagement and Excellence Dr. Yeurys Pujols;

• The Pursuit of Happiness: Awareness, Advocacy, and Inclusion of People with Intellectual Disabilities in Higher Education featuring Dr. Kenne Evans, Registrar/Admissions & Registrar, Tarrant County Community College, Texas; and Danielle Lopez, HCCC Director of DEI for Accessibility Services; and

• We Are Still Here: On Native Identity and Activism with Megan Red Shirt-Shaw, Director of Native Student Services, University of South Dakota; and Denise Knapp, HCCC Coordinator/Associate Professor of Human Services.

Topics covered in sessions throughout the week included: Justice is a Bridge: Community-centered Approaches to Governance; Howard University Students: Social Justice Studies; Immigrant Justice; Course & Curriculum Reform Across STEM Disciplines; The Black Woman Leader; Words on Fire: The Power of Incendiary Language; Disability Advocacy in Higher Education; Governor Murphy's Clemency Initiative; New Jersey Reparations Council; College and University Presidents' Panel; League of Women Voters: Your Voice = Your Vote; Faith Leaders' Panel; Operationalizing Love; Social Justice in the Constitution; WE ACT for Environmental Justice; The Haitian Immigrant Injustice Experience; Immigration in the News; HCCC Student Reflections; Expungement Information Session; and Clean-up of the Passaic River.

Hudson County Community College's Communications Department needs your help in identifying unique and exceptional graduate student stories to use in publicity for the upcoming Commencement ceremony as well as future marketing materials.

HCCC's Communications Department will be pitching these stories to media during the Commencement season and would be pleased to hear from students willing to be interviewed. Some past noteworthy stories covered by media included students who:

- Began studying at HCCC later in life
- Have relatives on HCCC staff or of HCCC alumni
- Are family members graduating together
- "Beat the odds" (earned a degree despite an obstacle, disability, etc.)
- First in the family to earn a degree

SUMMER HOURS

This year, the summer four-day week will begin Monday, May 19, with the first Friday off scheduled for Friday, May 23. The five-day schedule will resume on Monday, August 18.

The daily hours of operation during the summer four-day weeks will be 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, and the College will not be open for regular business on Fridays. Employees are asked to reduce their lunch breaks to 30 minutes to help compensate for the shorter hours of operation during the week. College activities on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays during this period will be minimized to reduce energy and other operating costs.

Should you have any questions about this schedule, please contact the Office of Human Resources or your supervisor.

HCCC CELEBRATES WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH WITH WOMEN IN BUSINESS DISCUSSION FEATURING TRUSTEE STACY GEMMA

On Wednesday, March 5, Hudson County Community College's School of Business, Culinary Arts and Hospitality Management commemorated Women's History Month with an inspiring "Women in Business" discussion featuring HCCC Trustee Stacy Gemma.

Ms. Gemma, who joined the Board in June 2024, shared insights from her multifaceted career as a successful retail store owner, fashion consultant, and commercial realtor with Donovan Realty Group in Jersey City. She emphasized the importance of resilience, networking, and adaptability in today's business landscape.

Beyond her professional accomplishments, Ms. Gemma has been deeply involved in community service, contributing to organizations such as the Hudson County Chamber of Commerce, Jersey City Jewish Association, Jersey City Youth Foundation, Hudson Pride, and the Jersey City Theater Company. She has also supported health and wellness initiatives through the Cancer Support Community of Monmouth County and Monmouth Medical Center Women's Council.

The event provided attendees with valuable perspectives on entrepreneurship, leadership, and the impact of women in business. HCCC is proud to celebrate the achievements of women like Trustee Gemma, who continue to inspire and empower future generations.

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE HOSTS INSPIRING WOMEN IN STEM DISCUSSION FEATURING DR. NADIA DOB

To honor Women's History Month, Hudson County Community College's (HCCC) School of Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) hosted a Women in STEM Discussion featuring distinguished alumna Dr. Nadia Dob. The event celebrated women's achievements in STEM and aimed to inspire the next generation—making Dr. Dob a perfect role model for the occasion.

The well-attended event, sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society, the American Chemical Society, the President's Advisory Council on Institutional Engagement and Excellence, and Girls Who Code, welcomed 125 in-person and virtual attendees.

An HCCC alumna, Dr. Dob shared her remarkable journey from Algiers, Algeria, to earning her Doctor of Pharmacy degree from Rutgers University's Ernest Mario School of Pharmacy, and currently completing her residency at Virtua Health to becoming a clinical pharmacist.

Dr. Dob's path to success began when she enrolled in English as a Second Language (ESL) courses at HCCC after emigrating to the United States. Despite the challenges of learning English as her third language—after French and Arabic—her passion for science and dedication to education propelled her forward. She earned an associate degree in Biology from HCCC, laying the foundation for her transfer to Rutgers University. In May 2024, she reached a major milestone by attaining her Doctor of Pharmacy degree. According to Instructor Raffi Manjikian, who coordinated the event,

"It was inspirational for HCCC students to see one of their own come back to tell her story, discuss the challenges she overcame, and show them that they, too, can succeed in STEM careers."

Dr. Dob offered valuable advice to current HCCC students, emphasizing the importance of utilizing available resources, engaging in mentorship and leadership opportunities, and building relationships with professors. She highlighted the necessity of perseverance, stating that success in STEM requires sacrifices, but that the reward of a fulfilling career is worth it in the end.

Reflecting on her budding career, Dr. Dob expressed her passion for helping others, stating that, to her, the most rewarding aspects of being a pharmacist are when patients thank her and when she sees her patients get better.

Dr. Dob hopes to pursue a second year of residency with a focus on oncology. She is passionate about optimizing chemotherapy management and alleviating treatment side effects to ensure the highest standard of patient care.

Dr. Burl Yearwood, Dean of HCCC's School of STEM, emphasized the importance of inspiring more women to participate in STEM. He stated, "Encouraging and supporting women in STEM is essential for fostering innovation, promoting equality, and driving progress in science and technology. Women bring unique perspectives and experiences that can lead to innovative solutions. Diversity in thought is crucial for tackling complex problems, developing unique solutions, and advancing knowledge. An often overlooked advantage is the economic impact. Increasing women's participation in STEM can boost economic growth. Women represent a significant portion of the talent pool, and their inclusion in STEM fields can help meet the growing demand for skilled workers."

HCCC President Dr. Chrsitopher Reber added, "Dr. Dob is an excellent role model for women pursuing STEM degrees and for all students. By showcasing inspiring role models like Dr. Nadia Dob at events such as the Women in STEM Discussion, HCCC reaffirms its commitment to empowering the next generation of students."

Foundation Art Collection

The Hudson County Community College Foundation Art Collection of 2,000+ works is installed in the public areas of campus buildings. The entire College is an educational art museum. This Collection reveals aspects of America's and New Jersey's rich artistic and cultural history from the Hudson River School period to today. In recent years, the College's acquisition efforts have focused on strengthening its American and New Jersey modern and contemporary collections.

Each month, this page in HCCC Happenings provides updates on artists whose works are in the Collection, and new additions to the Collection.

Donor Acknowledgment

Thank you to Joan Snyder for the donation of six wonderful photographic prints by Larry Fink, and for the donation of 31 art books and catalogs. Paintings and prints by Joan Snyder can be seen on the fifth and sixth floors of the Gabert Library at 71 Sip Avenue, and in the lounge of the Nursing program at 870 Bergen Avenue. A photographic work by Larry Fink can be seen on the 4th floor of the Gabert Library.

Thank you to Janet Rudolph for donating a book by Sister Mary of the Compassion, OP, "An Artist's Notebook." Many works by this local artist can be seen on the seventh floor of the North Hudson Campus.

Artist News

Jaune Quick-To-See Smith's work can be seen on the third floor of the Gabert library. Another print from our edition is now on view at Rutgers. Before her recent passing, the artist curated a show at the Zimmerli Art Museum at Rutgers University in New Brunswick. The exhibit is called, "Indigenous Identities: Here, Now & Always" and it will be on view through December 21, 2025. The show also includes work by 97 artists who represent over 74 Indigenous nations and communities across North America. Among them are Terran Last Gun and Melanie Yazzie, whose art also can be seen on the Gabert Library third floor. Quick-to-See Smith said, "Perhaps the preeminent issue in the Indian world is plain survival. Beyond that it means retaining our own cultures, governments, languages, religions, and ceremonies...I am telling stories about hope with humor. We wouldn't be here if we didn't have hope."

The exhibit "Mickalene Thomas: All About Love" can be seen at the Hayward Gallery in London through May 5, 2025. The artist says: "My gaze is the gaze of a Black woman unapologetically loving other Black women." Works by Thomas are in the collections of numerous institutions including the Museum of Modern Art, New York; Whitney Museum of American Art, New York; Brooklyn Museum; Studio Museum of Harlem, New York; and Hudson County Community College Foundation. You can see two print works by the artist on the first floor of the Gabert Library. In this case, her gaze is turned upon her fabulous dachshund, Priscilla.

The recently published book, A Handbook of Latinx Art, edited by Rocío Aranda-Alvarado and Deborah Cullen-Morales, includes a chapter by artist Juan Sánchez: "The Puerto Rican Equation: Art as Plebiscite for Survival, Struggle, and Sovereignty" (1998). "This book is a curated selection of key texts and artists' voices exploring US Latinx art and art history from the 1960s to the present, [and] ... is the first anthology to explore the rich, deep, and often overlooked contributions that Latinx artists have made to art in the United States." You can see works by Juan Sanchez on the third floor of the Gabert Library.

We are disappointed we won't be able to see Elizabeth Catlett's work in the major exhibit called "Before The Americas" at the Art Museum of the Americas in Washington, DC, because the show of works by Afro-Latino, Caribbean, and African American artists had to be cancelled after the new Presidential administration labeled the exhibition as a "DEI program and event" and withdrew funding earmarked by the previous administration. The cancelled exhibit, curated by Cheryl D. Edwards, was four years in the making, and was slated to open on March 21. The curator told Hyperallergic, "This is an issue of silencing DEI visual voices ... and discrimination based upon race, caste, and class." Some who use the DEI acronym (short for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion), add a fourth element, Belonging. So, the acronym becomes DEIB. Educator Mac McGregor points out, "At its core, DEIB is about ensuring that all people—regardless of identity, background, or experience—have the opportunity to thrive. It's not about exclusion or replacement; it's about recognizing talent, valuing different perspectives, and removing systemic barriers that have historically favored some while disadvantaging others." The show was to include 40 works exploring migration, colonial challenges, and interconnectivity in the African diaspora in the Americas. These included works by Mexican-American sculptor Elizabeth Catlett, whose prints you can see here at HCCC on the first floor of 870 Bergen in the Nursing program, on the third floor of the Gabert Library, and on the fourth floor of 71 Sip Avenue in the Academic Affairs area.

At the American Alliance of Museums conference in Los Angeles in May, Elizabeth Merritt, the Vice President of Strategic Foresight and the Founding Director of Center for the Future of Museums will present a workshop on, "How to Face the Future, Cultivate Optimism, and Defy Dystopia" which will address "how we can use foresight to envision positive change, cultivate resilience, resist apathy, and identify plausible options in difficult times." She recommends the book: Imaginable: How to See the Future Coming and Feel Ready for Anything, Even Things that Seem Impossible Today (2021) by Dr. Jane McGonigal, which "draws on the latest scientific research in psychology and neuroscience" to "build our collective imagination so that we can dive into the future ... and access urgent optimism, an unstoppable force within each of us." Encouraging us to look at the big picture, what

HIP HOP TAKES CENTER STAGE AT NORTH HUDSON CAMPUS

The rhythm and energy of hip hop will come alive at Hudson County Community College's North Hudson Campus on Thursday, April 10, with a series of engaging events. The day kicks off at 9:30 a.m. with an inclusive dance workshop that explores the connections between hip hop, disabilities, mental health, and healing. Open to all abilities, this workshop is designed to promote self-expression and movement in a welcoming space.

Later in the morning, at 11:30 a.m., renowned artist Sherwin Banfield will lead an inspiring artist talk, providing insights into his creative process and the impact of hip hop culture on the arts. To top off the day, the Office of Student Life and Leadership will host a breakfast reception, offering attendees a chance to connect and reflect on the power of hip hop as a cultural and artistic movement.

Don't miss this exciting day of music, movement, and meaningful discussions—come be part of the celebration!

we want to happen in the next 10 years, she offers exercises to give “our imagination space to expand, and enables us to envision change that may seem almost impossible over the short term.” Likewise, Elizabeth’s second suggestion: The Good Ancestor: How to Think Long Term in a Short-Term World, (2020) by Roman Krznaric, celebrates those he calls “time rebels” who are thinking ahead to explore how they can be good ancestors to future generations. He says the time rebels are “reinventing democracy, culture and economics so that we all have the chance to become good ancestors and create a better tomorrow.” For a quick summary, you can watch his 2020 TED talk. (Forgive the lugubrious delivery and focus on his message.) Roman Krznaric: How to be a good ancestor | TED Talk https://www.ted.com/talks/roman_krznaric_how_to_be_a_good_ancestor?language=en With these tools, we are thinking ahead about our own HCCC Foundation Art Collection and other topics.

Three of Benny Andrews’ prints are on the third floor of the Gabert Library. A recent exhibit of his work was called: Benny Andrews: Trouble. The title comes from Andrews’s studio journal entries dated 1965–72. “Trouble,” he says, “is an expression of being alive. To be in trouble is to embrace the struggle and vulnerability of the process.” The exhibit was at the Ruth Foundation for the Arts in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. This exhibition title reminds us of the late Congressman John Lewis’s idea of “good trouble.” The Brookings Institute website details what Lewis meant by this. They start by quoting him, “Get in good trouble, necessary trouble, and redeem the soul of America.” And then the site reminds us that “John Lewis made this statement on the Edmund Pettus Bridge in Selma, Alabama on March 1, 2020 commemorating the tragic events of Bloody Sunday. Bloody Sunday occurred on March 7, 1965 as peaceful protesters were beaten by law enforcement officers for crossing the bridge” in a demonstration to bring attention to the fact that Black Americans overwhelmingly were denied the right to vote. “Lewis and others like Amelia Boynton Robinson were beaten so badly they were hospitalized.” That brought Federal effort to support the protestors exercising their First Amendment right to protest, and to the Civil Rights movement. For more information, go to: [Five things John Lewis taught us about getting in “good trouble”] (<https://www.brookings.edu/articles/five-things-john-lewis-taught-us-about-getting-in-good-trouble/>)

Lidia Khayrulina was named a semifinalist of the Jack Kent Cooke Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship.

HCCC Student Lidia Khayrulina Named One of 467 Semifinalists for Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship

Congratulations to Lidia Khayrulina on being named by the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation as one of 467 community college students – and one of 21 from New Jersey – as a semifinalist for its highly competitive Cooke Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship. This transformative scholarship empowers exceptional community college students with financial need to transfer to the nation's top four-year institutions while avoiding the burden of student debt. The award, which is last dollar funding after all institutional aid, can provide as much as $55,000 per year for two to three years to complete a bachelor's degree at any accredited four-year undergraduate institution in the U.S.

CYBERSECURITY ALUMNI AND CURRENT STUDENTS GATHERING

Alumni from HCCC's Cybersecurity Program returned in February to mentor current students, sharing insights and guidance for future success.

In alignment with HCCC's deliverables for the $600,000 NSF Grant (Award Number: 2400895) under the project "Empowering the Next Generation of Cybersecurity Professionals with a Focus on Women," HCCC hosted a mentoring and alumni gathering on February 25, 2025 fulfilling key goals and objectives of the grant.

Purpose of the Event:

- Celebrate the achievements and success stories of our alumni, including women in cybersecurity.
- Strengthen connections between mentors and mentees through in-person engagement.
- Increase student participation in the mentoring program.

The event opened with a warm welcome from Professor Faisal Aljamal, followed by a recorded message from Dr. Burl Yearwood, Dean of STEM. Professor Yanuz Gunner then shared key highlights of the mentorship program.

Mentors in Attendance: Notable alumni who returned as mentors included: Asma Daif Allah, Raida Al Hattab, Alexandra Velez.

Alumni Spotlights: Several alumni shared their experiences at HCCC and their current journeys in the cybersecurity field—whether in the workforce or pursuing master's degrees. These included: Nicolas Peccerelli, Stephen Cronin, and Sebastian Zapata Alena Liakhava. Additionally, the event introduced Atim Oton, the Alumni Relations Coordinator.

Key Takeaways:

- Encouraged current students to join the mentoring program.
- Invited more alumni to participate as mentors.

- This event was a meaningful step in fostering a strong cybersecurity community at HCCC, with a special emphasis on empowering women in the field.

Goal I of the grant is to increase the percentage of women cybersecurity professionals in the Hudson County area. The goal is also to recruit, maintain, and graduate more women in the HCCC Cybersecurity Program.

Goal II is to better prepare students to be successful in the cybersecurity field. Proposed objectives and activities include a comprehensive approach to prepare students graduating in the cybersecurity field. By decreasing barriers to skill acquisition, providing hands-on experience, fostering student retention, and promoting workforce diversity, we aim to create a talent pool of cybersecurity professionals equipped to face the challenges of the ever-evolving digital landscape.

Among our many activities is creating a peer mentoring program and bringing alumni as guest speakers to speak to current students. More than 40 students, alumni, staff and faculty participated. Special thanks to Ronny Canales who took care of the planning and preparation for this event.

PIZZA WITH THE PRESIDENT

President Dr. Christopher Reber joined HCCC students for a lively discussion over pizza at the Student Center in March.

ASTRONOMY CLASS GOES TO PLANETARIUM AT THE LIBERTY SCIENCE CENTER

Spring 2025 Introduction to Astronomy students visited Liberty Science Center's Jennifer Chalsty Planetarium, the largest planetarium in the United States.

On March 12, 2025, HCCC's inaugural Introduction to Astronomy class blasted off on an unforgettable tour of the Liberty Science Center's Jennifer Chalsty Planetarium in Jersey City, New Jersey. Accompanied by Instructor Raffi Manjikian, the 24 students enjoyed visiting the largest and most advanced planetarium in the United States. They embarked on a trip that took them deep into space: to infinity and beyond. Their excursion included awe-inspiring stops through the magnificent rings of Saturn and a captivating exploration of distant galaxies, culminating in a breathtaking view of the edge of the known universe.

The experience left the students with a sense of wonder and appreciation for the vastness of space, making it a truly educational and enriching adventure. In addition to their journey through the stars, the students observed the Science on a Sphere exhibit, located just outside of the Planetarium. This six-foot spherical globe provides a stunning visualization of high-resolution images and animations of Earth, the moon, planets, and the sun, immersing visitors in dynamic and vibrant depictions of our planet and the cosmos. The visit to the Liberty Science Center offered students a unique and hands-on opportunity to engage with space science in a way that deepened their understanding and sparked their curiosity about the universe.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY BLUE RIBBON PANEL: 2YC RECOGNITION

The American Chemical Society (ACS) gathered a distinguished group of two-year community college Chemistry professors from across the nation in Washington D.C. for an important blue-ribbon panel discussion on the role of associate degrees in Chemistry education. Among those selected to participate was HCCC's ACS advisor, Instructor Raffi Manjikian, who was honored to contribute his expertise to the panel. The panel focused on developing standards, criteria, and guidelines for future recognition and accreditation of Chemistry associate degree (A.S.) programs. Throughout the sessions, the panel discussed curriculum and student skills, student support services, program evaluation, partnerships, experiential learning, and professional success. The establishment of these standards is a step forward in elevating the quality of community college Chemistry programs, ensuring that students across the country are well-prepared for their academic and professional futures in the field of Chemistry.

HCCC HONORS FALL 2024 DEAN'S LIST ACHIEVERS

Hudson County Community College honored its Fall 2024 Dean's List students at a celebratory reception on March 13.

Hudson County Community College (HCCC) proudly announces that 884 students earned a spot on the Dean's List for Fall 2024, recognizing their outstanding academic achievements. This honor is awarded to full-time students completing at least 12 college-level credits with a semester GPA of 3.5 or higher and part-time students meeting the same criteria within a calendar year. ESL courses are excluded, and an F grade disqualifies eligibility.

Dean's List recipients come from all HCCC schools, including Business, Culinary Arts, Humanities, Nursing and Health Sciences, STEM, and Social Sciences. To celebrate their dedication, a special reception was held on Thursday, March 13, where deans commended students for their perseverance.

Dr. Darryl Jones, Vice President for Academic Affairs, encouraged students to keep pushing forward, saying, "If this is your first Dean's List, don't let it be your last." HCCC President Dr. Christopher Reber praised their hard work, stating, "Your achievements reflect persistence and excellence, inspiring us all." Congratulations to all honorees for their dedication to academic success!

Hudson County Community College has implemented Connect-ED, a text- and voice-messaging emergency-alert system in the event of a crisis or emergency that poses an immediate and life-threatening danger to the College community.

Free and Confidential

HCCC provides this emergency service free of charge to students and employees – there is no charge to sign up. However, mobile service providers may charge a fee for incoming messages depending on an individual's plan.

CULINARY ARTS INSTITUTE HOSTS ALUMNAE PANEL

On March 25, 2025, three alumnae of the HCCC Culinary Arts Institute (CAI) participated in a panel regarding their experiences at the university level. Deborah Bradley, AAS Culinary Arts-Baking and Pastry Option Alumna of 2019, spoke of her experiences as a student at Montclair State University. Layla Soto, AAS Culinary Arts-Baking and Pastry Option Alumna of 2022, spoke of her studies at Fairleigh Dickinson University (FDU). Deliah Torres, AAS Culinary Arts Alumna of 2019, discussed her experiences of leaving New Jersey to study at Johnson & Wales University. Emma Dooley, AAS Culinary Arts Baking and Pastry Alumna Class of 2021 and graduate of FDU, was also in attendance. Diana Sanchez, Career and Transfer Coach from HCCC's Career and Transfer Pathways, discussed her department's offerings regarding the process of transferring to a university.

This panel was organized and moderated by Table Service Faculty of the CAI, Ms. Marissa Lontoc. All three alumnae expressed their gratitude for the rigorous studies and preparations they experienced #HereAtTheCAI. They served as reminders that current students can take advantage of the transferability of their degree from HCCC to the university level.

PROFESSIONAL NOTES

This past December, Jani Decena-White, Assistant Professor of Humanities and Speech, had the honor of serving as producer for the Broadway play When My Soul Speaks. Created by the renowned Lisa Nichols — one of the most sought-after motivational speakers in the world—the production was a powerful testament to the impact of storytelling and personal expression.

For Decena-White, this experience was more than just a professional milestone; it was a perfect extension of her lifelong commitment to helping individuals develop confidence, presence, and leadership through the power of their voices. Her work on When My Soul Speaks exemplifies her passion for empowering others and highlights the incredible influence of the spoken word.

“Participating in the La Hermandad (Hispanic Heritage Special Edition) panel last fall was a powerful reminder of how much talent exists within our faculty and staff,” she says. “Meeting my fellow panelists, brilliant women in leadership roles, and engaging in conversations about leadership, identity, and professional growth reinforced my belief that Hudson County Community College is moving in the right direction by empowering more voices - voices that deserve to be heard and elevated yet are sometimes hidden due to situations we can better address.”

CONTINUING EDUCATION & WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT NEWS

CEWD Solar Installation Training Program

Hudson County Community College, in partnership with Dimension Energy and Solar One, offers a Solar Installation Training Program providing 15 students with a valuable opportunity in the renewable energy sector. Since March 17, participants have actively engaged in OSHA 30 training, construction fundamentals, and job readiness preparation. In the second week, students gained hands-on experience in solar installation and exposure to other career paths. Upon completing the program on April 7, participants will be equipped to pursue employment.

Gateway to Innovation: Empowering Students for Career Success

The Gateway to Innovation (GTI) program at Hudson County Community College bridges the gap between education and industry by delivering career-focused training, professional development, and experiential learning. GTI equips students with in-demand skills, industry credentials, and professional connections to thrive in today's workforce.

This spring, GTI will introduce new initiatives to enhance career readiness. On April 3, GTI will host a LinkedIn 101 Workshop to help students build professional profiles and expand their networks. Beginning April

1, a new Money Mentorship partnership with M&T Bank will provide financial literacy training, including topics such as banking basics, budgeting, home ownership, and credit scores. GTI is also expanding its certification programs, offering industry-recognized credentials such as CompTIA A+, CompTIA Data+, and the Associate Professional in Human Resources (aPHR) certification from HRCI (HR Certification Institute®).

GTI continues to grow, offering students the tools and resources needed to succeed in high-demand industries. Additional updates and upcoming events will be announced soon.

New Jersey Film Academy at Hudson County Community College

The New Jersey Film Academy at Hudson County Community College empowers aspiring filmmakers and television professionals through immersive, career-oriented educational programs. Designed to prepare students for entry-level positions in the film and television industry, the academy blends technical training with industry insight to support creative and professional development.

Participants gain foundational knowledge, practical skills, and valuable networking opportunities within the world of film and television. The curriculum covers essential aspects of the industry and prepares students for success in a fast-paced, competitive environment. The program transforms passion for visual storytelling into tangible career opportunities.

ALUMNI CORNER

Darius Gilmore

A.A. General Liberal Arts, HCCC Class of 2018

Darius is an art curator, musician, and aspiring writer. After his time at HCCC, he graduated from NJCU with a degree in music business.

What led you to attend HCCC?

Cost control. Attending a two-year college was a bit more affordable than attending a four-year college. I was accepted into quite a few four-year colleges but HCCC was more cost-effective and it was local so it was easy to get to by bus. I went to Snyder High School and knew people who were attending so there were some familiar faces here.

Where did you go after HCCC?

After graduating from HCCC, I went to NJCU for all of the same reasons – affordability and location. It's right by my house. I majored in music business, which is a hybrid between regular music classes and business classes so that you can learn the ins and outs of the music industry.

How did you become interested in pursuing music?

I became interested in music in high school. I was in the media arts program at Snyder. One of my teachers, Mr. Diaz, put me on to a lot of good music. From there I thought 'this is something I really want to do.' It even inspired me to pick up an instrument. I eventually saved up my money to buy my first bass guitar, a Kramer, at a pawn shop. I've kept it to this day despite the fact that I have three bass guitars now.

What kind of music are you interested in?

I have an eclectic ear. I'm willing to listen to anything, even something obscure. I'm open-minded. I try not to judge music anymore. I try to appreciate everything. I like music that enlightens me even if it's a bit odd – I listen to polka, I've even warmed up to country. I play a lot of hardcore and punk rock, and even some thrash. I write the music myself and with my bandmates in my band, Mindless Generation. We had our first concert of the year in January. In a few weeks I'll be traveling to Philadelphia to record a live studio session with the band.

How did you learn how to play bass?

Just by picking up my first bass – I didn't know anything about it. I went with the James Brown philosophy of music – if it sounds good, play it! I got a big reality check when I auditioned for the music business program at NJCU. The program director said I sounded bad and my instrument was out of tune. They worked with me, and I started with the business classes first. I passed those and then enrolled in a music class the following semester. I took a pop and R&B class and a former student spent a lot of time teaching me how to play – I learned a lot from him and if it wasn't for him, I probably wouldn't be where I am now.

At the same time, I also learned to read music. At first, you're just picking up an instrument, you're excited to play, and you don't really know how much you don't know. It takes a lot of perseverance and time.

Tell us about your involvement with the HCCC Foundation Art Collection.

We have over 2,000 works and we've been building it up for years. I've done a lot of the work to give the Collection an online presence, like adding captions and descriptions to the artwork on the website. Our Collection archive is the first thing that comes up when you Google many of the artists.

During my time working for the Foundation Art Collection, I've enjoyed learning more about art in general, appraising, and sourcing art. I had the honor and privilege of curating a whole floor of the North Hudson Campus. We received many photographs from artists for the Museum Project, (a philanthropic initiative to donate pieces from notable American photographers as a way of expressing gratitude towards museums that support the photographic art form) and I had the opportunity to select which ones we wanted donated to us.

What's your vision for yourself in the near-term future?

I want to keep going with my band. I'm also in the middle of writing my own manga (a Japanese-style graphic novel), and I'm working with an illustrator I hired. Right now, I'm in the midst of my hopes and dreams with the band and the manga.

What advice would you give to current HCCC students?

Calm down, relax, and remember that patience is everything.

I know that the music field is very crowded, so it's up to you to stand out in the most meaningful way possible to you. Put yourself out there.
