Stahl Jr., HCCC Trustee; and James A. Fife, Mayor, Town of Harrison and HCCC Trustee Emeritus.

udson County Community College (HCCC) hosted the official topping-out ceremony of its new STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) Building on Wednesday, January 6, 2016. The event occurred at the College's 2 Enos Place building in Jersey City - near the site of the STEM Building which is now under construction at 257-263 Academy Street in Jersey City, NJ.

Hudson County Executive Thomas A. DeGise and several state and local elected officials joined HCCC Board of Trustees Chairman William J. Netchert, Esq., other Board members, and the College's President, Glen Gabert, Ph.D. In addition, HCCC students and members of the College's administration and faculty were also on hand for the event.

The six-story, 70,070 square-foot, state-of-the-art building, which is scheduled to open in 2017, will be home to the College's STEM programs. When completed, the building will have floors dedicated to General Science, Electronics Engineering Technology/Physics/Engineering, Biology/Microbiology, and Chemistry. The steel frame structure with concrete floors on metal decking has been designed with science and computer labs, classrooms, and student break-out rooms on each of the top five floors, as well as offices, student lounges, lecture halls, a coffee shop, and exhibit space.

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE LIBRARY TO BE PRESENTED 2016 ACRL EXCELLENCE IN ACADEMIC LIBRARIES AWARD

udson County Community College (HCCC) has been notified that the College is one of just three academic libraries in the United States to be selected as a recipient of a 2016 Excellence in Academic Libraries Award from the Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL). The award recognizes the staff of a college, university, and community college library for programs that deliver exemplary services and resources to further the educational mission of that institution. Macalester College DeWitt Wallace Library (St. Paul, MN) and Atlanta University Robert W. Woodruff Library (Atlanta, GA) were also named as recipients of the ACRL awards.

HCCC President Glen Gabert, Ph.D. said: "This award is testimony to the dedication and teamwork of our Library staff in attending to the needs of our students and our community. The ACRL has informed us that this is the first time any New Jersey college or university has been selected to receive this award, and we are especially proud to be the first."

In a statement, ACRL Executive Director Mary Ellen K. Davis said: "These three deserving recipients demonstrate commitment to student learning, information literacy, and assessment with a focus on continuous innovation and engagement with the campus community that exemplifies today's best academic and research libraries. HCCC TO PRESENT SCREENING OF AWARD-WINNING FILM, 'FREEDOM RIDERS' udson County Community College (HCCC) will present Freedom Riders, the fourth and final film in the series, "Cre-▲ ated Equal: America's Civil Rights Struggle," on Monday, February 29 at 3 p.m. The film will be shown on the sixth floor of the College's Library Building at 71 Sip Avenue - just one block from the Journal Square PATH Transportation Center in Jersey City. A discussion of the film led by Grace Patterson, the former Director of the College's Library, will accompany the screening, which is open to the HCCC community and the general public; there is no charge for admission.

The "Created Equal: America's Civil Rights Struggle" initiative marked the 50th anniversary of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s March on Washington, and was made possible by a grant to the College from the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) and the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History. Hudson County Community College was one of only 473 institutions nationwide awarded the collection of four films, which also included The Abolitionists, Slavery by Another Name, and The Loving Story. The initiative was developed using powerful documentary films to spark discussions about the changing meanings of freedom and equality.

Freedom Riders is the Emmy-award winning historical documentary directed by Stanley Nelson about the courageous band of civil rights activists who challenged segregation in the American South in 1961. The film is based in part on the book by historian Raymond Arsenault titled Freedom Riders: 1961 and the Struggle for Racial Justice. The term, "Freedom Riders" refers to hundreds of interracial activists who traveled together in small groups sitting where they chose on trains and buses to challenge the racial segregation that existed.

Additional information on "Created Equal: America's Civil Rights Struggle" and the screening of Freedom Riders may be obtained by contacting John DeLooper, HCCC Director of Library Technology, at (201) 360-4723.

HCCC FOUNDATION SUPPORTS FACULTY TEAM TO ATTEND NISOD CONFERENCE IN MAY

our faculty members and Dr. John Marlin, d Dean of Instruction/Sciences, will be attending the NISOD (National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development) Conference in Austin, Texas in May. The faculty member team includes Dr. Nancy B. Booth (ESL), Dr. Sirhan Abdullah (Health Sciences), Kathryn Buckley (Academic Foundations English), and Dr. Jerry Lamb (Criminal Justice). Sirhan Abdullah will also be presenting at the Conference on "Promoting Active Learning: Strategies for the College Classroom" through the lens of allied health; he instructs classes for Nursing and Health Sciences and is the coordinator of Health Services. What interested him most about attending the NISOD Conference is the opportunity to attend a variety of workshops and learn from best practice institutions.

Nancy Booth teaches Reading and Academic Discussion for ESL Levels 2 and 3; she has also participated on the Strategic Planning Committee, the Academic Calendar Committee, D-Mentors program, the Graduation Committee, and many others. She believes that by going to the NISOD Conference, she will enhance her professional practices leading to increased student engagement.

Dr. Jerry Lamb is an Instructor in the Criminal Justice program. He teaches a variety of courses in Criminal Justice ranging from Introduction to Criminal Justice to Criminal Law. He is an active member of the Academic Affairs Committee. He also works extensively with EOF, which is a state-sponsored program that supports students who want to attend college, but need additional academic and financial support. In addition to mentoring students in EOF and in the Criminal Justice program, he also participates with D-Mentors, created to assist staff and faculty seeking support with their doctoral pursuits.

Kathryn Buckley teaches courses for both the Academic Foundations English Department and the Humanities Division. She is looking forward to attending NISOD in May to learn about best practices in the teaching of English and is excited that the conference focuses on student success. She believes that she will come away from the experience with ideas that she will be able to incorporate into her current cur-

Congratulations to these faculty members for being selected to attend the upcoming NISOD conference. The mission of the NISOD organization is to be committed to promoting and celebrating excellence in teaching, learning, and leadership at community and technical colleges. NISOD programs are based on the principle that teaching excellence is a result of focused leadership, increased awareness, excellent teaching strategies, and the appropriate use of technology. NISOD also promotes teaching excellence through its various activities and webinars throughout the year.

Sending a team of HCCC faculty to the conference gives faculty a chance to collaborate with each other, learn new techniques, and discuss their learnings in end-of-day discussions. Participants then return to HCCC and share this new information with their colleagues.

Catherine Sweeting, Dr. Shannonine Caruana, and Hope Stephenson served on the NISOD selection committee. Importantly, this program is fully funded by the HCCC Foundation as a professional development initiative focused on excellence in teaching.

NEW BENEFIT: EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (EAP)

ppreciating that it can be challenging to balance everyday personal, family, and work-related issues, please be advised of the new Employee Assistance Program, E4Health. Please use this rate when filling out travel expense reports when using your personal vehicle for College-related travel. Note: This does not apply to your regular travel commute from home to work.

• 54 cents per mile for business miles driven in 2016, down from 57.5 cents for 2015

NEW HEALTH CARE REPORTING REQUIREMENTS: FORM 1095-C

ew reporting requirements per the Affordable Care Act (ACA) began tax year 2015. The ACA requires Hudson County Community College, similar to other large employers, to issue Form 1095-C to its full-time employees. The form confirms that the College offers minimal essential health care coverage to its employees.

The Internal Revenue Service uses the form to identify individuals that are ineligible for the premium tax credit because they have been offered employee-sponsored coverage. In addition, the form confirms an individual is not subject to ACA penalties as he/she has employer-sponsored coverage.

INTRODUCING...

OTONIEL 'OTTO' BOLANOS, COLLEGE LECTURER (ESL)

Otto always makes it a point to make learning easy and fun. During his high school years in Colombia, he felt the need to learn English in order to get better grades and wanted to help his classmates at the same time. This led to his dream of becoming an English teacher.

He pursued that dream at Valle University in Colombia. While there, he began his experience as a formal educator, teaching English for Academic Purposes in 1989. In 1991, he received a bachelor degree in Modern Languages. Otto continued teaching ESL for over a decade in Colombia where he also had the opportunity to work as a teacher/trainer, staff developer, curriculum implementer, program administrator, and workshop presenter.

In 1999, Otto came to the United States to immerse himself in the English language and American culture. He worked as an ESL instructor for various language institutes in New York City, gaining more valuable experience in the process.

In 2002, he joined the team of ESL instructors at Hudson County Community College. This encouraged him to sharpen his English teaching skills by entering into the Multicultural Education Graduate program at New Jersey City University and the TESOL (Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages) certification program.

Otto cites his own life example when he teaches his students. He encourages them to follow their dreams, no matter how great.

DR. SHEILA DYNAN, DIRECTOR OF HEALTH RELATED PROGRAMS

Dr. Dynan earned her Doctor of Medical Humanities from Drew University; a Master of Social Work from New York University; her Master of Physical Education Administration degree from Montclair State University; and a Bachelor of Physical Education and Health degree from the University of Massachusetts-Boston. $\,$

Dr. Dynan holds the following certificates and licenses: Licensed Clinical Social Worker (NJ); Certified New Jersey School Social Worker; Certified New Jersey School Personnel Services; Certified NJ Supervisor/Principal; Certified New Jersey Teacher K-12 Physical Education; Certified Teacher K-12 Health and Physical Education, English and Biology in Massachusetts.

Most recently, Dr. Dynan served as Dean of the School of Health Studies at Berkeley College. Previously, she worked at College of St. Elizabeth as Chair of Allied Health and Fitness; at New York University as an Adjunct Professor of Graduate Social Work; and at Morristown Medical Center's Crisis Intervention-Emergency Department, where she remains on a per diem basis.

In her new role, Dr. Dynan will provide leadership to the College's Health Related academic areas (with the exception of nursing).

IDALIA CHICAS, HELP DESK MANAGER

In 2004, while attending classes and studying Management at Hudson County Community College, Idalia Chicas joined the part-time staff in the computer labs on campus. After earning her degree from HCCC, she became a full-time Lab Coordinator. In this role she managed more than 30 lab assistants and maintained 25 working labs across the Journal

Square and Union City campuses.

Idalia has continued her education at New Jersey City University, where she has been studying Business Administration and recently graduated.

Regarding leadership, Idalia says, "You have to be willing to set an example. Come to work on time, communicate to others with respect, pay attention to your professionalism which includes dress and demeanor, find answers for people who need them, and have a can-do attitude!"

In her new position, Idalia will provide hands-on client support and training for help desk staff.

CHASTITY FARRELL, OUTREACH COORDINATOR, NON-TRADITIONAL PROGRAMS

As Outreach Coordinator for the Division of Non-Traditional Programs, Chastity builds strategic business and community relationships, and coordinates various outreach activities in order to promote the wide array of programs under the Non-Traditional umbrella. These departments consist of Community Education, the Center for Business and Industry, High School Dual Enrollment (LEAP), the Center for Online Learning, and Evening, Weekend, and Off-Site Programs.

Chastity's former role was Special Projects Coordinator for the Center for Business and Industry, and the bulk of her career has been in business development and marketing in the fashion and media industries.

Chastity has a Bachelor's degree in Entrepreneurship with a minor in Economics from the Fashion Institute of Technology. She also has associate degrees in Fashion Merchandising Management from the Fashion Institute of Technology and in Fashion Design from Parsons, The New School for Design.

KEITH RAYMOND, ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT, FINANCE

Keith Raymond, the College's new Administrative Assistant in the Finance Department, has several years' experience in administration. He joined Hudson County Community College in January 2016 and came to the College from Providence College, where he also served as an Administrative Assistant for Student Affairs.

Keith received his Bachelor's degree in Fashion, Textiles Merchandise, and Design with a minor in General Business from the University of Rhode Island. He is also a graduate student pursuing his Master's in Clinical Mental Health Counseling at New Jersey City University.

As an Administrative Assistant, Keith will be responsible for providing administrative support, participating in special projects as assigned, and effectively collaborating with others to contribute to project completion.

NJCU AND HCCC EXPAND PARTNERSHIP FOR HIGHER EDUCATION PATHWAY PROGRAM IN STEM FOR HISPANIC STUDENTS WITH ASSOCIATED SCHOLARSHIPS

ew Jersey City University (NJCU) and Hudson County Community College (HCCC) have agreed to an innovative expansion of their general partnership and dual-admit initiative in STEM education (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics). The goal of the newly announced Pathway Program and scholarships is to increase Hispanic student participation in STEM career fields.

Through the new Pathway Program – which will become effective in the fall 2016 semester – students have the option of dual admission to STEM programs at both institutions or seamless transfer from Hudson County Community College to New Jersey City University.

Hispanic students transferring from the HCCC STEM program to the NJCU STEM program may apply for a newly instituted NJCU Provost Scholarship for STEM Education. The Provost Scholarships will cover 100% of tuition costs for two years. As many as ten Provost Scholarships will be awarded each year. Applicants for the Provost Scholarship must have earned a grade point average (GPA) of at least 3.0 while studying at Hudson County Community College. Students who are not awarded a Provost Scholarship become eligible for a non-standard rate of tuition with a $4,000 per year discount for two years.

Both HCCC and NJCU are designated as Hispanic-Serving Institutions (HSIs), two of only 271 colleges and universities in the U.S. recognized as HSI institutions by the Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities (HACU). Hispanic students are traditionally under-represented in most STEM fields.

"Making higher education opportunities in STEM accessible for minority students has been a strategic initiative at both institutions," said Dr. Eric Friedman, HCCC vice president for academic affairs. "These scholarships and reduced tuition rates help make it tangible, real and accessible for Hispanic students to act on their dreams."

In announcing the expanded partnership, Dr. Daniel J. Julius, NJCU senior vice president and provost, said, "The opportunity for STEM study for Hispanic students is consistent with our highest priorities. This will be a wonderful pathway for an important constituency and, coupled with reduced tuition costs for those enrolled in the Pathways Program in STEM, will encourage exceptional students to explore a field which offers attractive career opportunities and employment possibilities. I am delighted we can work collaboratively with HCCC on this innovative program and thank both Presidents for their support."

Foundation Art Collection

The Hudson County Community College Foundation Art Collection, which includes artworks in media from painting and sculpture, photographs, American craft pottery, and ephemera, reveals aspects of America's and New Jersey's rich artistic and cultural history from the Hudson River School period to today. In recent years, the College's acquisition efforts have focused on strengthening its American and New Jersey modern, and contemporary collections.

Each month, this page in HCCC Happenings provides updates on artists whose work is in the collection, and new additions to the collection.

Artist News

If you like the print of Dodo MMVII by David Beck on view at the North Hudson Campus Library, you might enjoy seeing his Dodo Museum which has been exhibited at the Smithsonian. It is on display at Allan Stone Projects through Feb. 20, 2016. The gallery is located at 535 West 22nd Street, 3rd Floor. Other works by David Beck are also on display.

The show includes a different print from the edition which we have at North Hudson. In a review on Hyperallergic, John Yau says of the work, "The dodo may look dumb and foolish to us, but our own foolishness turns out to be monstrous. Beck's devotion to this impossible recreation is a funeral hymn full of whimsical visual notes, a gentle reminder of human waste and greed."

Malcolm Bray, whose painting Out of the Blue (ca. 1990-91), was recently acquired by the Collection, will be participating in an exhibition at the Hunterdon Museum through May 8. The exhibition, titled, "Discomfort: Experiments in Furniture, Function and Form," is curated by Liz K. Sheehan. It features objects that resemble furniture, but do not function as such. "When we own objects purely for their utility, there is a tendency to see past them," said Sheehan. "Through a sense of discomfort that's both literal – 'I can't sit on it' — and psychological – 'I don't understand it' — these sculptures prompt us to look anew at objects around us."

If you like the 1960s Joseph Kossuth works installed on the fifth floor of the Library Building, you might enjoy the exhibition "Made at Conception" at Castelli Gallery, 18 East 77th Street, New York City through Feb. 19. The exhibit features four other works from the 1960s. This includes one of his famous works in neon. Interviewed recently by The Wall Street Journal about this exhibit, Kossuth says of the sound the neon bulbs make, "It's a little like going to an aquarium. It's the sound of thinking." Kossuth's work has caused confusion and consternation for decades because he works with concepts and avoids traditional materials. Kossuth says, "If you begin with the presumption that artists work with meaning, not with forms and colors, you get a whole other approach for seeing art. The idea was to get rid of the aura around the work of art. It's a burden and we don't need it."

Christo, whose work is also installed on the fifth floor of the Library Building, is currently in Abu Dhabi making the largest sculpture in the world, involving 410,000 barrels.

If you'll be in Milan, Italy in the next few weeks, you might enjoy visiting the Cardi Gallery's Sol LeWitt exhibit, which includes 13 works from the 1960s to the 2000s. The HCCC Collection's works by Sol LeWitt — one on each campus — are in the North Hudson Campus library, and on the fifth floor of the Jersey City Culinary Conference Center. They were made by the artist, while he was alive. Read on to understand why that is unusual ... Closer to home, both at the entrance to Christie's auction house at 20 Rockefeller Plaza, and at the entrance to the Columbus Circle Subway station at 59th Street, you can see enormous new works by the artist, who died in 2007. LeWitt was a pioneer in what's called "Conceptual" art. In the 1960s, LeWitt, like Kossuth had an idea about art that still shocks people. He wrote, "The work is the manifestation of an idea. It is an idea and not an object. ... The idea itself, even if not made visual, is as much a work of art as any finished product." LeWitt's "work" is often just scribbled instructions. It's up to someone else to make the piece. So, even though he has been dead for nine years, many "original" LeWitt works are still being made today. (This may also help explain why an art dealer was recently sued for millions of dollars for losing a client's instructions about how to make a LeWitt.)

David Beck, "Untitled (Dodo with Interior Dodo Diorama)" (1977), mixed media, carved and painted wood, glass, and feathers, 21 x 14 x 27 inches.

Anne Q. McKeown – whose enormously long lush landscapes are installed at the Welcome Center at North Hudson Campus and at the Center for Business & Industry workshop space in the Journal Square PATH Plaza – is exhibiting art work through Gallery Aferro in the Activate: Market Street project. Her work will be installed in a storefront at 77 Market Street in Newark through May 21, 2016.

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE TO PRESENT "CONTEMPORARY HUDSON COUNTY," FEATURING THE WORKS OF LOCAL ARTISTS

udson County Community College (HCCC) will hold the opening of "Contemporary Hudson County," the latest installation in the College's Benjamin J. Dineen, III and Dennis C. Hull Gallery, on Sunday, January 31, 2016 at 1 p.m. The Gallery is located on the top floor of the College's Library Building at 71 Sip Avenue – just across the street from the Journal Square PATH Station in Jersey City.

HCCC Director of Cultural Affairs Michelle Vitale said that "Contemporary Hudson County" was curated by HCCC Professor Laurie Riccadonna and includes the works of several Hudson County artists, some of whom are members of the HCCC faculty and staff. In addition to reflecting the diverse lives and concerns of the people of Hudson County, the exhibit also addresses the changing identity of Hudson County, and its status as a growing center for the arts and creative endeavors.

The exhibiting artists include Thomas John Carlson, Michelle Doll, Eileen Ferara, Allison Green, Armando Guiller, Deborah Jack, Iris Kuvert-Rivo, Doug Madill, Jason Minami, Edwin Montalvo, Margaret Murphy, Katie Niewodowski, Duda Penteado, James Pustorino, Jon Rappleye, William Santos, Jill Scipione, Jeremy Smith, Anne Trauben, Michelle Vitale, and Amy Wilson.

The College has scheduled a reception for the exhibit on Tuesday, February 2 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. On Friday, February 5 from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., Professor Riccadonna and Ms. Vitale will lead a curatorial tour of the exhibit, which will enable the community to learn more about all of the works. Some of the exhibiting artists will be in attendance at the event.

Finally, a panel discussion with selected exhibiting artists is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, February 10 at 12 noon.

"We are very proud to be able to showcase the work of so many local artists in this exhibit at Hudson County Community College, and we congratulate Professor Riccadonna for a job very well done," said HCCC President Glen Gabert, Ph.D. "The ex-

On Jan. 15, Library staff members Carol Van Houten, John DeLooper, Kate Bellody, Lawren Wilkins, Mei Xie, Johnathan Cintron, and Devlyn Courtier attended the 17th Annual VALE NJ ACRL Users' Conference at Rutgers University. The theme of this year's conference was "Library as Locus: Energizing your Campus Community." The keynote speaker was Dan Russell, Senior Research Scientist, Search Quality and User Happiness, at Google. Russell talked about the intersections between Google users and library users, and what the commercial and educational search worlds can learn from each other.

Johnathan and Devlyn presented a poster session at the conference titled, "Gaming in an Academic Library: Hosting a Super Smash Brothers Tournament at Hudson County Community College." They demonstrated how gaming can have a role in academic library programming by featuring HCCC Library's experience hosting a Super Smash Brothers Tournament. They discussed the process and logistics of hosting

Non-Traditional Programs' Open House at the Culinary Conference Center

Division-wide Events

On January 14, Non-Traditional Programs, as part of its popular Lunch & Learn monthly series, held a "New Year, New You" workshop on "Strategies for Personal & Professional Success." The workshop was moderated by Coach Lilisa J. Williams and focused on goal setting, leadership development, and life balance. The event took place at the Culinary Conference Center, with several business partners and community members in attendance.

On January 28, Non-Traditional Programs hosted its first Open House to promote all the divisions that fall under the Non-Traditional umbrella. Representatives from the Center for Business and Industry, Community Education, LEAP, Online Learning, and Evening, Weekend, and Off-Site Programs met with members from the community in attendance and spoke about their departments' programs and new initiatives. Instructor Oto Bolanos presented a computer literacy course demo for CBI and Chef Courtney Payne gave a cupcake decorating demo for Community Education.

On January 4,, in partnership with the Hudson County Department of Corrections (HCDOC) and the Hudson County Workforce Investment Board (WIB), CBI rolled out a series of computer training classes for the prison's reentry program. As many as 60 inmates at the Kearny lockup have enrolled in courses that will lead to certification with global technology company Cisco, preparing these atrisk adults and juveniles for careers in in-demand industries. Computers provided for the program were built and contributed by Urban Renewal.

With TAACCCT funding CBI will begin running SmartStart in the month of February. SmartStart is a healthcare program given prior to any healthcare training, which will help candidates determine whether the industry is right for them and give them the necessary knowledge needed to continue into a more formal healthcare training program.

If you would like more information on SmartStart, please contact Tammy Hunter at 201-360-4225 or thunter@hccc.edu.

On January 30, CBI, in partnership with the University of Phoenix and Fresh Direct, held a career fair at the University of Phoenix's Jersey City campus. The event was open to both students and community members looking for jobs and career resources.

On January 10, CBI co-sponsored the Statewide Hispanic Chamber of Commerce of NJ brunch with Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of NJ. The goal of event was to increase awareness about the Affordable Care Act and enrollment in their insurance plans.

CBI partnered with Goodwill Industries of Greater New York and Northern New Jersey to host a hiring event for ShiftGig at the Culinary Conference Center on January 28. ShiftGig is a platform that provides flexible work opportunities and connects people who want temporary work with the businesses who need them.

On January 20, for College Service Day, Otoniel Bolanos presented the faculty welcome address. Oto is the first full-time instructor for the noncredit side of Hudson County Community College and currently serves as ESL Lecturer for CBI, as well as Continuing Education.

If you are interested in grant-funded training for your employees, you may be eligible for the "Basic Skills Workforce" training program, funded by the New Jersey Business and Industry Association (NJBIA) and the New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development. Open Enrollment for the following programs will begin in February: Microsoft Office 2013, Communications and Other Employability Skills Training.

To register or for more information, please contact Aycha Edwards at 201-360-5329 or aedwards@hccc.edu udson County Community College (HCCC) Vice President for Development Joseph Sansone announced that the College has been presented with an endowment of nearly $68,000 from Hudson Cradle.

HUDSON COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE FOUNDATION RECEIVES SIZABLE ENDOWMENT FROM HUDSON CRADLE FOR ANNUAL SCHOLARSHIPS

The donation was given to establish an annual scholarship for incoming freshman women who are single mothers and reside in Hudson County. The Hudson Cradle scholarship recipient must also be enrolled at Hudson County Community College as a first-time student and demonstrate financial need.

Hudson Cradle was a nonprofit organization in Jersey City that served nearly 500 at-risk infants over a 20-year span. The organization was established in 1991 in response the "boarder baby" crisis in New Jersey. Hudson Cradle provided infants – many of whom were victims of prenatal drug addiction, HIV exposure, homelessness, chronic illness, and developmental delays – with pediatric nursing care, therapy, and more; its group of volunteers were dedicated to holding and rocking the babies in the organization's care. Significant upgrades in New Jersey's foster parent program diminished the need for Hudson Cradle's services, and the organization closed its doors in 2011.

"This endowment will go a long way to assist young women in our community in developing a more sound future for themselves and their children," said HCCC President Glen Gabert, Ph.D. "For two decades Hudson Cradle attended to the needs of the most vulnerable inhabitants of our community, our infants. We are honored to have been presented with this gift from such a well-respected organization, and we will oversee the endowment with the same sense of caring that Hudson Cradle demonstrated over the years," he stated.

The Hudson County Community College Foundation is a nonprofit 501 (c) 3 corporation giving tax-exempt status to contributors. Since the Foundation was established in 1997, it has provided over $2 million in scholarships to more than 2,000 students.

In addition, the HCCC Foundation established the Foundation Art Collection nine years ago to coincide with the initiation of the College's Fine Arts studies program. Presently, the Collection includes nearly 800 paintings, lithographs, photographs, sculptures, and other works-of-art that are displayed throughout all of the buildings on the College's Journal Square Campus and at the North Hudson Campus.

Information about HCCC Foundation scholarships may be obtained by contacting Mr. Sansone at 201-360-4006 or jsansone@hccc.edu.

Excellence in Academic Libraries Award is a national tribute to each library and its staff for outstanding service, programs, and leadership."

Trevor Dawes, chair of the 2016 Excellence in Academic Libraries Committee noted that the HCCC staff – by incorporating information literacy components across all general education courses – positively impacted student learning. He also cited the HCCC Library staff's leadership through the use of the iPad cart and the new HCCC Library

Makerspace – one of the first such spaces to be opened on a college campus in the U.S.

HCCC Associate Dean for College Libraries Carol Van Houten related that in addition to successfully moving to and opening the College's new Library at 71 Sip Avenue in Jersey City, the Library staff also created programming for one of the first academic library Makerspaces in the country, hosted two exhibits, collaborated with the Office of Student Activities in hosting coffeehouses and the College's first Literary Salon, and created a book club. She said the Library strives to engage students through a variety of events and activities, such as gaming tournaments and arts and crafts.

"Through these events, Library staff make connections with students, so that when they do need help with research or an assignment, they think of the Library as a friendly and welcoming place," she said. "Receiving this award is a tremendous honor for the College and the Library, and we are thrilled!"

The HCCC libraries serve more than 9,000 students and thousands of community members on the College's Journal Square (Jersey City) and North Hudson (Union City) campuses.

Dr. Gabert said that the ACRL will make a formal presentation of the award to the College in early May. Details regarding the award presentation will be made available soon.

NEW STUDENT ORIENTATION

n Tuesday, Jan. 19, the Center for Academic and Student Success (CASS) held the last of several New Student Orientation sessions between Journal Square and North Hudson Campus. ALUMNI CORNER

Yeurys Pujols

Class of 2001

What factors led you to decide to attend Hudson County Community College?

Attending HCCC was a very simple choice for me. Right after high school my plans to join the U.S. Marines Corps did not materialize because my mother had strong religious convictions against my decision. In order to appease her, I decided to delay signing up for a year while I tried other alternatives. My high school academic portfolio together with my limited English vocabulary/proficiency did not open many doors in the world of higher education, particularly since I was applying late. It should go without saying that my options were very limited. My cousin, Anacely Gonzalez, handed me an HCCC admissions application, which I completed unenthusiastically. Shortly after, I took the College Placement test, but did not come to register until a good friend, Andres Lara, physically dragged me out of the house and took the bus with me to HCCC in order to register.

What is your favorite memory of the College, in or out of the classroom?

While a student at HCCC, I worked as a Student Peer Mentor for the Student Support Services Program. I enjoyed my interactions with students and working with people like Syokwaa Mulumba, Jacqueline Stevens, and Lee Harclerode who really cared about the community. I went on many of their trips and participated in most of their workshops and other activities. I grew during my time at the SSSP, particularly because Mrs. Stevens entrusted me with responsibilities that forced me to step outside my comfort zone. She often told me that the best way to teach anything to anyone, was to have them teach it. At the time I always thought she was talking about students in general, but now I know she was referring to me.

How did you become interested in [major/career]?

Originally I had no idea what a major was, let alone how any of them related to me. It made sense for me to settle on history, and the decision came after my experiences in the classrooms, particularly with professor Dorothy Anderson who taught most of the history classes I took at HCCC. It was refreshing to understand that the study of history was not just the combination of people, an event, and a date in the same sentence.

How did your time at HCCC prepare you for your career/ life now?

When you learn English as a second language, you find yourself always second guessing your ability to pronounce certain words. After I transferred to NJCU, I remember my first history class there was taught by a professor who used a water gun, and every time anyone failed to provide the right answer, that student and everyone around him/her would get splashed. It seemed funny and even entertaining at first, but getting soaked with cold water during the winter months would change your mind quickly. I was concerned that Mr. Watergun was not going to understand my answers and would unleashed the rain onto the side of the room embarrassing me. Ironically enough, out of roughly 20 students in the class, I was the only exempt from the final exam. I am glad that I was never a victim of the water gun, but I am also proud to say that my time at HCCC made me ready to the academic challenges that I was to encounter.

Question regarding career/work, such as: a. What is a typical work day for you? (Nurses, medical professionals)

I come in early and leave late. I speak to students and colleagues on a daily basis in person, email, and via phone. I am usually working on a few projects at any given time and often new ones arise that require my immediate attention. Every day might look different than the other, but I enjoy every minute of it.

b. What has been the most memorable project/case you have worked on? (Law, social work)

About 3 years ago during our commencement/ graduation, one of my former students tapped me on the shoulder and asked if he could introduce me to someone. As I walked behind him, he introduce me to his father and told him, in Spanish, the following words, "Dad, this is Mr. Pujols, my counselor and Professor, I am graduating today because of him." My student was proud that he was graduating, his father was proud to stand next to him and I was proud to share the moment with them.

Who are your biggest inspirations that have impacted your work in some way?

I have to list my mother, who gave up her old lifestyle and her marriage to stay in this country working in a factory so that my sister and I can have a better future. She provided very little guidance as of how to go about it since she knew very little of college, her only expectation was that we made something out of ourselves. I always try to do my best to make sure that when she sees me, or hears of me, her decision to give everything up for her children more than 20 years ago still looks like a good idea.

What advice would you give to recent HCCC graduates?

To be proud of where they come from, and to be confident that they have the tools to get the job done, independently of where they go next.

"What advice do you have for those students who are just starting their college career?"

HCCC will provide you with the tools you need to be successful. Our faculty and staff will go above and beyond to make sure you have the support you need to complete the journey. We will do our part, we just need you to do yours. My advice is that you always do your best in your classes, your homework, exams and papers because at HCCC you get to write your own ticket of where you can go next.
