HCCC CELEBRATES KICK-OFF OF SECOND PHASE OF CONSTRUCTION

Hudson County Community College (HCCC) hosted a celebration marking the beginning of the second phase of construction of its new Learning Resource Center & Academic Building on Tuesday, Oct. 23, 2012. The event began in the reception area of the College's Administrative Building at 70 Sip Avenue in Jersey City and continued across the street to the site of the new building at 65-79 Sip Avenue.

HCCC President Dr. Glen Gabert said elected officials representing Hudson County and its municipalities attended, as did members of the College's Board of Trustees, the HCCC Foundation's Board of Directors, and HCCC faculty and staff.

Ground was broken for the new Learning Resource Center & Academic Building last November, and since then the site has been excavated and the foundation constructed.

Plans for the six-story, 117,000 square-foot structure — which was designed by NK Architects — call for a library and reading room to be housed on the first two floors. That space will house traditional, printed collections as well as e-books and digital multimedia, computer stations. Wireless Internet service and power stations for laptop computers will be available. There will also be a casual seating and coffee bar that will provide students, faculty and staff with a comfortable place to relax before and after classes.

There will be approximately 10 classrooms in traditional classroom, computer labs and tiered lecture hall designs on each of the three floors above the Learning Resource Center. The sixth floor, which is stepped back, will have a rooftop terrace with sweeping views of the New York Harbor and the Hudson and Hackensack Rivers. The sixth floor will also house a large lobby/exhibition space for progressive art installations and gatherings, and there will be three classrooms adjacent to the gallery that will be flexible in size (with mobile partitions) and will provide a venue for special events and programs.

"The exterior design of this building is in keeping with the early 20th century architecture found in Journal Square," stated Dr. Gabert. He noted that it is predominantly brick, with granite bases, cornices and two-story arches, as well as metal panels that provide a more contemporary look.

HCCC Board of Trustees Chairman William J. Netchert, Esq. explained that this new facility is part of the College's $173 million capital expansion program. "For the past few years, we have seen record numbers of students enrolled at Hudson County Community College, and we know this building will better serve our students' academic needs and provide them with a place where they can get together and enjoy one another as well," he said.

GET CONNECT-ED WITH HCCC!

Hudson County Community College has implemented Connect-ED, a text- and voice-messaging system in the event of a crisis or emergency.

Connect-ED is HCCC's response to a federal law which requires disclosure of pertinent information about campus crime and security.

The system will allow the College to send time-sensitive notifications by phone, email and/or text message.

Both HCCC students and employees have been automatically registered in the emergency-alert system and will receive alerts to their HCCC email accounts unless they opt out.

Users are encouraged to access the College's website, www.hccc.edu/emergency, and click on the Connect-ED link to register additional contact information such as home, work, and cell phone numbers.

HCCC will provide this emergency service free of charge to students and employees — there is no charge to sign up. However, mobile service providers may charge a fee for incoming messages depending on an individual's plan.

Personal information entered into the Connect-ED system will be kept confidential.

On Friday, Oct. 5, Hudson County Community College's Science & Engineering Club, in the purpose of learning more about a project it is planning to undertake, toured a startup clean energy provider company named Petra Solar Inc. (www.petrasolar.com) in South Plainfield.

the growing company, which started with 12 people, and has now more than 600 employees.

During the tour, students learned about solar panels and the company. The company started as a research project at the University of California. The lives of each of us are now being affected by this research. The company is saving money to states and utility companies as PSE&G with their smart and sustainable energy approach, and is providing clean energy to the people living in the United States, Europe, and the Middle East.

On Saturday, Oct. 20, officers of Hudson County Community College's 2012 Student Government Association (SGA) participated in a team-building exercise in one of the kitchens at the Culinary Arts Institute/Conference Center (CAI).

Save the Date

On Friday, Nov. 30, Hudson County Community College will host a reception in honor of the donation and recent installation of more than 40 artworks by nuns of Monastery of the Perpetual Rosary (frequently referred to as the Blue Chapel) in Union City.

This exhibit looks at the art of four Dominican Nuns: Sister Compassion, Sister Gemma, Sister Hyacinthe, and Sister Imelda. The most famous of the four, Sister Compassion, is considered by many to be the greatest Dominican artist of the 20th century and figures prominently in the liturgical art reform movement initiated by Pope Pius XII. Later in life, she learned silver-smithing and set up a workshop in her cloistered monastery where she designed and made jewelry, which was sold on the commercial market to help the finances of her community. This aspect of her work was featured in an article published in The New York Times on March 14, 1972. She died in 1977. Examples of her jewelry can be seen in the display cabinet at the North Hudson learning center.

The reception will be held from noon to 2 p.m. at the Culinary Arts Institute/Conference Center. Please RSVP to Andrea Siegel at (201) 360-4007 or asiegel@hccc.edu.

This exhibition was made possible by generous donations from Clifford Brooks, Elizabeth A. Bogert in Memory of James Bogert, Vincent E. Bonito, Sister Carol Marie Scanlon, O.P., Yuwoon Choi, Lois Corrigan, Earl T. and Kathryn Kim, Fred Ken Lee, Michael Marsico, Daniel Perez, Ronald L. Threm. Thank you for your kindness and generosity

HCCC OBSERVES WELLNESS WEEK

The week of Oct. 8, 2012 held exciting and informative events for Hudson County Community College students. The Division of Student Affairs, in conjunction with the Center for Academic and Student Success, hosted HCCC's Wellness Week on the both the Jersey City and North Hudson Center campuses. This week was dedicated to introducing students to the six vectors of wellness: were Spiritual, Social, Physical, Environmental, Intellectual, and Emotional.

Over 1,000 students attended the events throughout both campuses. Wellness Week events included the Health and Wellness Fair, Your Big Idea, and Need to Relax-Yoga; just to name a few. Students had opportunities to enjoy the Health and Wellness Fair, where they could browse individual tables for information, play a favorite childhood game, Operation, grab a free bottle of water, and get their glucose and blood pressure checked. For some students, these quick check-ups were a wake-up call and a push in the right direction to start living a healthier life.

Your Big Idea was a fun event that brought out HCCC's budding entrepreneurs and gave them a chance to showcase their product inventions and compete against fellow classmates for a Kindle Fire. Participants included Laura Avelar, Ramsey Olivencia, James Dobles, and Axel Kouassi. Competitors showcased their selling skills with persuasive sales pitches, and Laura Avelar emerged as the victorious winner with a convincing pitch and fully functioning prototype. Laura had been working on her pitch since she last participated in the event in the spring, where she placed second in the competition. Audience members also joined in the fun with one viewer winning an additional Kindle Fire in a raffle.

In between the major events, smaller promotions took place which allowed administrators and students to mingle outside the office. During the week-long activities, CASS staff members handed out healthy popcorn snacks to students all around campus. Additionally, they could be found stopping students on the street to hand out kindness awards. The event promoted random acts of kindness on campus and students were encouraged to "pass along" their stickers and reward coins. The week's festivities came to a relaxing and therapeutic close as the student lounges on both the Jersey City and North Hudson campuses hosted a variety of De-stressing, Zumba, and Yoga classes free to all students. The activities were a great way to kick start a healthy lifestyle, distress before upcoming finals, and make an early start on healthy New Year's resolutions.
